Heavy Tone of the Stock Market Is Only Partly Corrected.

rected.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The overflowing speculative confidence which made liself so strongly felt in the stock market yesterday had sensibly subsided to-day. The movement of prices was halting and irregular, and the demand showed no disposition to follow prices upwards. The efforts of yesterday's huyers to realize their profits found so inconsiderable a demand that prices gave way before the attempt.

The causes for the halt in the upward movement lay for the most part with the speculative opinions of the habitual operators of a strong class.
The difficulty of distributing stocks at the level to which prices have attained, but belief that favorable factors in the situation have been fairly discounted, induced caution on the part of these operators.

The heavy tone of the market was partly corrected for a time by the aggressive movement upwards in Reading, but the lack of sequence to this movement left the former impression stronger than before. A point of positive strength of considerable sympaties led by the company's development
